Dear Sir

Paris June 23rd. 1777

I receivd in course yours to Mr Deane, now absent, & your obli-=ging favor to me — The first I communicated to Dr Franklin the according to Hynsons description of Anonyme, we are all sorry here any thing was put into her at all — as it will be giving her Cargo either to the Loaves or the English — The moment Mr D returns I shall urge him to answer that part of your Letter respecting the equipping of a Privateer. for my own part, I doubt not, but that he will readily coincide with Dr F. who seems not averse to the measure — An accident has happend to the Captn of a Little Privateer from Maryland which offers a temporary place to either Hynson or Potter. The Man suffered himself to be kidnapyd even in the road of Pherbury & is carried off to England as we suppose, in the mean time there is not one of his crew who understands navigation & they are totally dispirited by the loss of their Captn. I propose Hynson to su-=ceed him as the Sailors belonging to her must all know him & that Potter should take the Anonyme if she goes out. The next post will determine this matter in the mean time you can consult them abt it — Your acct of Hood surprizes me only in one cir-=cumstances which is that he did not leave more to regret his absence. Be assurd my Dear Sir, that I will never be long in your debt whenever you choose to credit me with a Letter, as no-=thing can give me more pleasure than frequent opportunities of assuring you how much I am Yours &c.

Wm Carmichael

Peace is made between Spain & Portugal & Spanish Ambassador is preparing to go to Madrid

I write Mr Ross & Hynson, to whom remember me) Nevil Pork —

The Privateer Invention was formerly Middletons pilot Boat named the Eden Hynson knows her well

RW 457 (1)

RW 45(1) NIC.CIRC.82

PAID

A Monsr

Monsieur Williams

Chez Mssrs Schweighausen

a Nantes

M. Communicated June 23. 1777.
Read — Answ.